Sea-Air-Space on demand

Navy League's Sea-Air-Space 2021 brought the U.S. defense industry and key military decision-makers together in August for three days of informative educational sessions, important policy discussions, and a dynamic exhibit hall floor.

Featured speakers included Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Michael Gilday and Marine Corps Commandant General David Berger.

Now you can watch specific sessions from this year's Sea-Air-Space Exposition on demand to help stay up-to-date on how you can support our Sea Services.

"From the Helm"

Greetings, members and friends of Navy League Seattle!

Although the post-pandemic future is slow in arriving, we know that some things will continue to be different than they were before. In that light, our board has begun to look at how we can most effectively in our mission of supporting the Sea Services in 2022 and beyond.

We want to hear from all of you as we plot the course ahead, and I invite your input and ideas. Please let me or any of our officers know your thoughts on the way ahead for the Seattle Council.

In the meantime, please drop in at our next Zoom social on Thursday the 30th. Filling out the rest of 2021, we have the last social on October 28th and our traditional salute to the Navy and Marine Corps in November.

In the meantime, please stay healthy and get vaccinated.

regards, Steve Keith

The Navy League was founded in 1902 with a clear three-pronged mission: to support the members of the sea services and their families; to educate the American people and their elected leaders about the critical importance of sea power for their economic prosperity and national security; and to help build America's future through successful youth programs like the Naval Sea Cadet Corps.
